The Ghana College of Nurses and Midwives has signed a memorandum of understanding with The Roche African Research Foundation in Accra.

The agreement is for a 3-year sponsorship program for the new residence in the oncology faculty of the College.

Ms. Hannah Acquah, Rector of the College who signed on behalf of the College, gave an overview of the College. In her remarks, she expressed the hope that the new residence would live up to expectation and maintain a high standard to make the college proud of them. She called on the new residents to justify their inclusion.

Dr. Mrs. Jemima Dennis – Antwi, President of the College seized the opportunity to invite Roche African Research Foundation to the second Annual General Meeting and Seminar of the College.

She called on the beneficiaries not to rest on their oars, but put in their maximum effort to lift the image of the college. She called for the consideration of a sponsorship agreement for the one-year program.

Dr. Philip Anderson, Country Director of the Foundation also gave an overview of the Foundation.

Present at the signing in ceremony were; Management of the Ghana College of Nurses and Midwives, representatives of the Roche African Research Foundation and the new Residents of the Oncology Faculty.
